Change the world of packaging with us:

Are you motivated, passionate about sustainability and want to shape the future in an innovative company with a strong vision? Then we have just the thing for you!

Gruber Folien is a modern, visionary company with a long tradition that prioritises sustainability and wants to change the market with innovative, customised products. Our mission is to develop and produce the sustainable packaging solutions of tomorrow so that we can pass on our planet and our family business to the next generation. We value people: Reliability, honesty and social responsibility; a good working environment for our team and excellent service for our customers.

Your opportunity:

We are looking for a trainee student in the field of strategic purchasing & sustainable material development to help us set the course for a greener future.

What we offer:

- An exciting working student job with 15 to 20 hours per week, up to 40 hours possible during the semester break.
- Remuneration of €15 per hour.
- Flexible working hours around a moderate core working time
- The opportunity to play an active role in rolling out a sustainable supply chain strategy
- The chance to develop and implement innovative solutions in a team that make a real difference.

Your tasks:

- Supporting the team in implementing a sustainable supply chain strategy.
- Communicating with suppliers and conducting risk assessments.
- Participating in analysing the supplier market and supporting tendering projects.
- Liaising with various departments to achieve Gruber Folien's goals.

Your profile:

- You are studying economics, business administration or similar.
- You are characterised by independence, analytical thinking and commitment.
- You have team spirit, quick comprehension and strong communication skills.
- Confident handling of MS Office, especially Excel.
- Good written and spoken German and English skills.
- Availability from June 2024 for 6 months.

Apply now and shape the future with us!

You will be based at our modern company headquarters, where you will gain direct insight into the exciting processes of a leading company in the field of packaging solutions.

We look forward to getting to know you!
